No Embalming

Crematory Requirement: A rigid container for cremation

California Requirement: Disposition Permit, Cremation Regulatory Fee, sales Tax on Merchandise

In connection with the funeral agreements made by the purchaser for the decedent named on page one, purchaser hereby confirms to seller that:

1. Purchaser was provided a printed General Price List prior to discussing or upon beginning discussion of, the prices of funeral goods or services, the overall type of funeral disposition, or the specific funeral goods or funeral services offered by the seller.
2. Purchaser was advised that the law does not require embalming except in certain special cases. Purchaser was not advised that embalming is required for direct cremation, immediate burial, or a closed casket funeral without viewing or visitation when refrigeration is available and when state or local law does not require embalming. If embalming was provided for a fee, it was done with purchaser's approval or the permission of someone authorized to give approval.
4. Purchaser was not advised that state or local law requires a casket for direct cremation or that a casket (other than an alternative container) is required for direct cremation.
5. Purchaser was not advised that any funeral goods or funeral services offered by seller would delay the natural decomposition of human remains for a long term or indefinite time, or that any such funeral goods have protective features or will protect the body from gravesite substances when such was not the case. No representation or warranties were made to purchaser about the protective features of caskets or outer burial containers other than those made by the manufacturers. Purchaser was advised that the only warranties, expressed or implied, extended in connection with any funeral goods sold with the funeral service were the express written warranties, if any, extended by the manufacturers thereof. No express warranties, and no warranties of merchantability or fitness for a particular purpose, were extended by the seller to purchaser with respect to those funeral goods.
